DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-15 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-8,10-15 and 20-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Nankai (USPN 5,120,420).

Nankai discloses a biosensor that comprises a support substrate (1), electrodes positioned on the support substrate (2,3,3') and electrode system (4,5,5'), an insulating layer (6), a reaction layer (14) composed of an enzyme and an electron acceptor and being provided thereon with a space (8, channel) defined by a spacer (7) with members (fig.4 U shaped), and a cover (9). When the support substrate, spacer and members, and cover are sandwiched together a channel (8) is formed (fig. 4-6). When a biological sample solution is brought into contact with the inlet (10) of the biosensor, the sample solution is introduced into its insides through inlet (10) wherein the sample fills the space (8). With regards to claim 4-6, the claims only require that the spacer have members. The broadest possible reading on this would be a spacer layer that has members formed from an original spacer (fig.4). In Fig. 4, there is a U shaped spacer. The base part of the U would be member 1, the left part of the U would be member 2, and the right part of the U would be member 3. Claim 6 requires that the second and third members are spaced apart, Fig 4 shows this configuration and further a channel (8) extends between the first, second, and third members. Fig 12 shows further embodiments of the spacer layer and multiple members to create multiple channels.
